- so be careful
- 01:17:20 Linda: I have a bryozoan colony on my ladder to my dock. What should I do with it?
- 01:18:40 Linda: could you repeat the website where you can find solutions for erosion control?
- 01:19:28 Jessica Sayers-NH LAKES: HI Linda, we will make sure to ask about your bryozoan colony. Do you plan on moving the ladder or dock?

01:20:08 Jessica Sayers-NH LAKES: Link for LakeSmart resource library:
<https://nhlakes.org/lakesmart-resource-library/>

01:21:47 Linda: Last year I didn't because the lake gets drawn down 6 feet. by not taking dock out, it didn't affect anything.

01:27:00 John Mullen: You have talked about leaves in lakes. How much a problem is this?

01:27:11 Ann Haralambie: does the regular septic servicing company do the inspections?

01:27:55 Jessica Sayers-NH LAKES: Hi Ann, great question!

01:29:10 Jessica Sayers-NH LAKES: Many septic companies can perform inspections, ask good practice we recommend using a certified professional when possible! Here is a link for statewide certified septic professionals: <http://www.gsdia.org/>

01:31:02 Craig Homenko: When the lake level is down down, is it ok to rake the muck up that is exposed?

01:32:55 Craig Homenko: Got it, thx

01:34:08 Linda: thanks ladies!

01:34:16 Donna Murphy: hi, how about composting for managing leaf fall.

01:34:33 Donna Murphy: Thank you

01:34:54 Jan Collins: This is so helpful!! Everyone should watch this. Thanks

01:35:16 Linda: thank you

01:35:18 Jessica Sayers-NH LAKES: Thank you Jan, glad you could attend!

01:35:30 Jessica Sayers-NH LAKES: Hi Donna, leaf litter is a great composting ingredient!
