

Waterfowl on the Lake – Beautiful and Sometimes Problematic

Hosted by NH LAKES

Wednesday, April 6, 2022, 7:00 – 8:00 p.m.

Zoom Chat Box Discussion

- 00:13:12 Therese Thompson: I use to live on Pawtuckaway lake in Nottingham
- 00:13:21 Patricia Freysinger: Pat - favorite lake Pea Porridge Pond in Madison NH
- 00:13:29 Nance Lavallee: Lake Winnepesaukee
- 00:13:40 Kate Morgan: Wolfeboro, lake Wentworth -
- 00:14:21 Sharon Young: Sharon Young Little Sebago Lake Gray Maine
- 00:21:45 Janet Boisvert: Half Moon Lake Alton/Barnsteadd NH
- 00:27:53 Therese Thompson: Canada geese can transport the fruit of Water Chestnut, an invasive aquatic plant
- 00:33:48 Therese Thompson: great information, thanks
- 00:36:36 Patricia Freysinger: can someone please ask the presenter to go a little slower with the slides
- 00:36:56 Patricia Freysinger: hard to read all the info on the slides at the speed she is moving through them
- 00:38:09 Erin Mastine, NH LAKES: The slides will be posted on our website tomorrow!
- 00:50:49 Patricia Freysinger: Can you review the ducks we are likely to see on NH lakes during the summer?
- 00:51:04 Sydney Stewart: Do Canada Geese contribute to the cyanobacteria?
- 00:52:22 Patricia Freysinger: is there anything being done - or that can be done - to reduce the population of Canada geese? (birth control?)
- 00:54:01 Sydney Stewart: but how can you shoot in a populated area on small lakes?
- 00:54:02 Nance Lavallee: Is there ever an issue with food supply
- 00:54:15 Jan Showers: Is there a restriction to where you can hunt the geese?
- 00:55:05 Kim Mitzel: What is the relationship between swans and Canada geese. Are fake swans an effective deterrent?
- 00:55:37 Janet Boisvert: I enjoyed this presentation so much Thanks

00:55:47 Nance Lavalley: yes

00:57:59 Nance Lavalley: Thank you for this interesting presentation

00:58:12 Elizabeth Jutila: Does any of the waterfowl eat milfoil

00:58:42 Scott Connell: Thank you! Great presentation!

01:01:26 Carol Gay: Great Presentation! Thank you so much.

01:02:39 Elizabeth Jutila: thank you

01:03:01 Peggy Walker: Thank you! Very informative. Good tips

01:03:08 Gloria Norcross, NH LAKES: Thank you, Jessica!

01:03:19 Jan Showers: There are a lot of geese that gather in a small cove on Squam Lake. I was wondering if they nest on the wooded shore line or someplace away from the cove area that they hang out?